“Revolution”

By Herbert E. Meyer

(The following are excerpts from a critically important article. We urge readers to go online to www.americanthinker.com to read it in its entirety.)

“The precise, technical word for what is happening in the United States today is revolution . . . [and] the crucial point to grasp is that when it’s over, a country has changed not merely its leaders and its laws, but its operating system . . . Just as computers have operating systems, so too do countries . . . and the technical word for replacing one political or economic operating system with another is- revolution.

“When politics in a democracy is normal, the political parties all agree to preserve the operating system while they compete to improve it . . . In abnormal politics, the objective of one party isn’t to improve the operating system, but to overthrow it.

“With this analogy clear in mind, we can now see clearly what’s been happening in the United States during the last three decades. While conservatives have been working to improve our democracy . . . liberals have been working to replace [it] with a dictatorship . . . [they] worked covertly, feigning support for democracy and for the free market while working diligently to undermine both. . . .

“Our country’s future now lies with our own hands- yours, mine, all of us who comprise the grass roots. . . . We need to launch a counter-offensive . . . and the place to start is at the local level. . . . our objective will be to elect as many people as we can to public office who understand what a democracy is and how the free market works. . . .

“I know this isn’t the kind of battle most of us want to fight; we would rather watch the talking heads slug it out on Fox News than standing on a street corner handing out campaign flyers.

“But we’ll get used to this as we make our case over and over again- to our friends, our neighbors . . . at public rallies . . .

The alternative to launching this kind of peaceful and political counterattack is horrific. . . .”
